In a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission, Blackstone REIT said that the increase was driven by increases in the value of its industrial and multifamily properties. In addition, rent collections for multifamily, industrial, net lease, retail, and office properties were 2.2 percent below a typical month.

“Overall, we continue to expect the path to a full economic recovery will be uneven and vary by sector,” the REIT said in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission. “Resilient sectors with solid fundamentals, such as industrial and multifamily, continue to be well-positioned in the current environment.”

The company also indicated that it continues to see increasing levels of transaction activity and completed recent acquisitions of assets consistent with those in its existing portfolio.

In addition, the REIT claims to have a robust pipeline of identified transactions totaling $2.7 billion as of October 15, 2020.

“Blackstone REIT continues to maintain substantial liquidity ($3.6 billion as of October 15, 2020) and modest leverage (46 percent loan-to-value as of September 30, 2020), the company added.

In late September, Blackstone REIT registered its second follow-on offering, comprised of $10 billion in Class T, Class S, Class D and Class I shares of common stock and $2 billion in distribution reinvestment plan shares.

Blackstone Real Estate Income Trust originally registered $5 billion in shares and accepted gross offering proceeds of $4.9 billion from January 1, 2017 to January 1, 2019. The company later registered a $12 billion follow-on offering, and as of mid-October 2020, had received $8.7 billion in investor proceeds.

As of September 30, 2020, the REIT owned a property portfolio valued at $32.8 billion and had positions in real estate-related securities and loans totaling nearly $5 billion. The company currently invests in multifamily, industrial, hotel, and retail properties, and real estate-related securities and loans.
