SC Distributors LLC, a wholesale distributor of alternative investment offerings, has hired Andrew Eisen to oversee the sales and marketing efforts of SC Distributors in the Southeast region.

Eisen has been in the financial services industry for more than 20 years and has experience in multiple areas including equity trading, institutional sales, and syndication, with more than a decade in the alternative investment space.

He most recently served as senior vice president of sales at Participant Capital, and before that was a regional vice president for the Southeast region at Resource Real Estate.

During his career, the company said that Eisen has raised more than $300 million through oil and gas partnerships, interval funds, non-traded real estate investment trusts, and real estate private placements. Prior to joining the financial sector, he worked in the advertising industry.

Eisen holds a bachelor's degree from Cornell University and FINRA Series 7 and 63 registrations.

This is the third hire SC Distributors has made in recent weeks. Last month, the company hired Steve Baker as senior regional vice president for its Central region and Crystal Rutkowski as vice president of national accounts.

SC Distributors is a wholesale distribution organization connecting financial intermediaries with alternative investment products. The firm partners with investment managers to create alternative investments that play a role in helping to build a diversified investment portfolio.
